

“The General Strike marked the beginning of the end of British colonialism and all that it stood for: white supremacy and racial discrimination; economic exploitation and votelessness of the Bahamian masses; inequality before the bar of justice, illiteracy and all the sordid aspects of second-class citizenship. Outwardly we wore the mask of happiness, but with bleeding hearts we pressed forward.” Sir Randol Fawkes - The Faith That Moved The Mountain

